Elegant Composition

Here is what the Lexington (Mo) Caucasian says about Geo H Pendleton and his supporters We give it place as a specimen of the best style of Democratic writing

A few of our hill pution country jakey contemporaries of the run or bust type of Democracy are chuckling like frantically pleased guinea pigs over the recent epistolary effort of one George H Pendleton And who is he or what is he that he should set himself up as a law giver to the Democratic Israel? A lilly handed million aire and a nice polished tonguey gentleman who gives royal entertainments in his palatial Porkopolitan mansion and who has no more feelings or interests in common with the hard fisted tax ground yeomanry of the country than has the chief mandarin of China or the Mikado of Japan A sweet scented and elegant aristocrat a flowery spouter who has been defeated for Governor in his own State defeated for Congress in his own district, defeated for everything he has dared aspire to for years—who couldn't to day carry his own ward of Hogopolis for constable In case this idiotic advice is accepted and a national Democratic ticket is nominated how will his Buckeye province Ohio go with her immovable 30 000 Radical majority Will the kid gloved greenbacker deign to inform us? The little nincompoopic newspapers that split their tiny linen in penny raptures over his advisory gush we know can't do it

THE PRESIDENTIAL QUESTION

From the N Y Herald Feb [illegible]

We are on the verge of another Presidential contest, and from the active agitation already commenced among the conflicting sections and outside factions and between the two great political parties of the country the battle will be hotly and fiercely contested Such indeed are the processes of transformation going on from old issues to new issues, and such are the discords and confusion among the clashing reformers and new departure leaders cliques and factions of the day, such are the demoralizations of the Democratic party, and such are the dissensions in the Republican camp that we cannot resist the impression that if General Grant were to be suddenly cut off it would be difficult to estimate the disastrous consequences If Bismarck is a necessity to the consolidation of the German empire, if Thiers at present, is the only safeguard against another threatened Jacobin French revolution so, from all the political movements around us is General Grant at this crisis, our only security against political confusion, a financial convulsion, a collapse of the national debt and credit and universal bankruptcy

And yet there is manifestly a league of hostile forces in process of formation against General Grant which promises an opposition campaign of unexampled bitterness ferocity and desperation. For instance, the new political party of labor reformers have in a national convention declared their principles and their ticket for the succession Their platform which is of India rubber, may be stretched or shortened by the Democracy to suit their purposes, while the labor reform ticket of Judge Davis of Illinois, and Governor Parker, of New Jersey, has the look of a preconcerted arrangement with the anti-Grant Republicans and the Democratic party. We are rather inclined to think, however, that the leaders of these labor reformers in this ticket are in the market for a good bid from the Democratic convention and that they will be apt to get it They must not be confounded with the trades unions of the country, for the labor reformers are purely a political organization, and their only visible strength, as far as developed, lies in a few thousand votes in each of the States of Massachusetts and New Hampshire But as some seventeen States were represented in this Columbus Convention the party may be considered as an organization in at least seventeen States Assuming that a hundred thousand votes can be commanded by this labor reform movement surely the Democrats will fish for it for, being short of fish, "everything is fish which comes into their net."

Next on the same day with the labor reformers—Washington's Birthday—and in the same city—Columbus, Ohio—the radical temperance men, in what they style a National Prohibition Convention, defined their position as a political party There were one hundred and ninety four delegates present from nine States The convention adopted a platform embracing many liberal crotchets; but its two distinguishing planks are the absolute prohibition of grog shops and liquor selling, except upon a doctor's prescription, and equal suffrage to all races and colors and to both sexes Cold water and woman suffrage are the temperance party platform and their Presidential ticket is James Black, of Pennsylvania, and John Russell, of Michigan Among the other names submitted were Judge Davis, Chief Justice Chase, General Butler, Gerritt Smith and Horace Greeley. We are sorry the Convention did not adopt Mr Greeley for President for his nomination would have made him a happy man, and in its support he would have soon become a tower of strength to the temperance cause. We suppose it was Mr Greeley's hostility to woman suffrage that settled him and that General Butler's peculiar temperance notions were not acceptable though he is sound as a cocoanut on woman's rights

Having no other feelings but those of scorn and contempt for the servile submission of the Republican and Democratic parties to the rumsellers and boldly taking the field for liquor prohibition and women's rights it is not likely that this temperance party on any terms which can be offered will coalesce with the "free and easy" Democracy But on the other hand if these temperance teetotalers make a vigorous fight they may take perhaps, as many as fifty thousand votes from the Republicans, which otherwise would be cast for General Grant We say Republicans, for it would be as difficult to find a temperance Democrat who would desert his party to support a temperance party ticket as it would be to find a wooly headed Indian or a white crow Hence this liquor prohibition and woman's rights Presidential party in proportion to its strength will be a loss to the Republicans and a gain to the Democrats

And now we come to the Cincinnati liberal, reform, anti Grant Republican National Convention appointed for the 20th of June next In connection, no doubt with this movement, the Democratic State Central Committee of Ohio held a meeting on the 22d at Columbus, and adjourned until June 13 without giving any date for their State Convention And again on the 22d instant the Democratic Central Committee of Illinois met in caucus, voted down all motions appointing a day for a State Convention and adjourned to the 8th of May which will be two days after the assembling of the Cincinnati Convention At the same time the National Democratic Committee of which Mr August Belmont is chairman and which is clothed with the authority to appoint the time and place for the national party convention remains silent We conclude therefore and we think it may be safely assumed that the Democrats expect great things of this Cincinnati Convention We suspect that there is an understanding between the Democratic leaders and the managers of the anti-Grant Republicans, to the effect that the Cincinnati Convention shall nominate a mixed ticket and platform acceptable to the Democracy and that the Democrats are to wait for it Next it is generally understood that the Democratic National Convention will be held back to take any advantages that may be offered against the ticket or platform of the regular Republican Convention which meets at Philadelphia on the 5th of June

Here, then is the joint stock opposition programme for the defeat of General Grant The labor reformers have taken the field, and for a fusion with the Democrats the Democrats are holding back for a fusion with the anti-Grant Republicans and the ultra temperance and woman's rights men have organized as a guerrilla party to pick up all the loose materials from the other parties in the contest, not forgetting a little trading and swapping of horses on the way Meanwhile the New Hampshire election approaches and the temperance men and labor reformers and Mr Sumner's special friends all working to the same end may give the State to the Democrats this year as they did last year and they may do the same good turn for the Democracy in Connecticut Mr Sumner and Mr Trumbull have been making speeches in the Senate for this purpose and it is said they are working among the New Hampshire radicals of the old school of our earlier Franklin and our later Franklin is putting in his oar too, rightly lustily in the good work Taking all these hostile movements and all these odds and ends together there is some prospect of a powerful coalition and a desperate and most exciting struggle for the defeat of General Grant

From another of the Herald's articles we take this

Mr Trumbull Mr Schurz and Mr Sumner have a personal grievance that has grown in to a passion they are angry but angry is not a conviction, or a principle and the country cannot be expected to accept it as a reason for abandoning principles or for making war upon an administration that has served the people well And here as we have again and again said, is the rock upon which this anti Grant party will split It is a party without a principle or a leader—a party of anger passion and disappointed ambition Here we have Mr Greeley, who was never satisfied with any administration and opposed Lincoln as he opposes Grant and Mr Sumner a sensitive, impatient student, and Schurz, an eager, keen, restless German who belongs naturally to an opposition and Trumbull following the Cincinnati incense bearers with dreams of the Presidency And what remains? Is this a party? Is this an alliance to command the respect and suffrages of the country, or have these men any one principle which General Grant opposes that will justify them in making an issue before the country? We see nothing of the kind Mr Trumbull has simply made a mistake Instead of a statesman we find a demagogue making an ostentatious parade of political virtues which, by his own confession, are only two years old A man who has only reformed himself within two years in the matter of political continence should be lenient in his criticisms upon others If Mr Trumbull can find no better reasons for making war upon the administration and going to the anxious society of the disappointed politicians at Cincinnati than what we find in his speech, the country will little heed him And as to this Presidential incense, it will only bring him weariness and strife and overmastering care, and that disappointed hope which maketh the heart sick

A Ten Thousand Dollar Jail

The story of the "Ten Thousand Dollar Jail" is the latest thing of interest to the people of Linn county It seems that the county authorities have built a jail at a cost of ten thousand dollars, which won't keep a prisoner over night The latest "departure" from that institution is thus chronicled by the Albany Register

After we had gone to press last week the three prisoners confined in our gay and festive ten thousand dollar Democratic jail threw up their situations and left us They removed a few brick from a partition wall, drawled through the hole thus so easily made gained the front door and coolly and quietly wended their way out of the city One of them—Kelly—getting tired of the exertion of walking or finding the road heavier than he expected, laid down to rest his weary limbs a short distance from the jail, where he remained until found by an officer of the law, when he returned to his old quarters The other two—Douglas and the half breed—obtained a skiff just below town in which they embarked, and, although the skiff has been recovered, the two thieves are still at large. It is understood that, among other reasons given for leaving the precincts of our elegant ten thousand dollar jail, one was that it was too insecure They contended that the walls were settling, and they feared that the first little wind storm would blow them down and bury them in the ruins. Kelly was brought back, as we said above, and locked up once more, tight and fast. In half an hour he again made his escape from the jail, but, as he did not elude the vigilant eyes of our officers of the law he was recaptured and again incarcerated in our beautiful but rather insecure ten thousand dollar brick jail As certain friends of the ten thousand dollar jail interest, soon after Kelly's second escape, proposed to make up a purse and buy a government or army tent, to be used hereafter in lieu of the ten thousand dollar jail for the security of prisoners and thus save the further laceration of their feelings in the matter of escaping prisoners, it is just possible that the tent has been secured, and the remaining prisoner, Kelly is securely incarcerated therein, awaiting the next session of the Circuit Court. If however, the tent has not been provided, the whereabouts of the prisoner is very uncertain "A thing of beauty is a joy forever" doesn't seem to hold good in the case of our ten thousand dollar jail Then it is fast losing its beauty—the holes in walls made by the new departures letting in entirely too much damp air In fact our new ten thousand dollar jail seems to be a case of misplaced confidence to its bosses all around. Instead of being an honor to the county and the party under whose supervision it was built, it turns out to be a reproach, a stupendous piece of stupidity, whereby the tax payers are the losers to the enormous extent of ten thousand dollars without any adequate return whatever However, we feel sorry for those concerned in the erection of that elegant ten thousand dollar jail for we feel confident they thought they were doing a good thing for the party in its erection—their failure was simply from want of ability and judgment, and not from a desire to emulate Tammany We may be mistaken in this proposition, but hope for the best

In their precinct meetings in Linn county on Saturday last the Republicans passed resolutions like this

Resolved, That we denounce the ten thousand dollar jail as a Democratic swindle on the most approved Tammany principles

On Colored Jurors

The Elevator organ of the colored people of San Francisco thus "gets back" on the Democratic organ of that city

The Examiner is sorely troubled of late What with Vice President Colfax's casting vote in favor of Sumner's Supplementary Civil Rights Bill Legislative bills for equal education to all children irrespective of color and colored jurors there is a great deal of trouble on the mind of our amiable contemporary We seldom see this expounder of Democratic theories and the resolutions of '98 but when we do we always find something particularly amusing from the antiquity of its ideas and the fossiliferous tendencies therein exhibited The Examiner of Friday last is boiling over with indignation on the above named subjects

After having in its own fertile imagination, demolished, crucified and chewed up Colfax, for giving his casting vote for Sumner's bill, it then pitches into Mr Wheaton for offering a school bill for the Assembly It excoriates Wheaton alive for his presumption and prophet-like predicts the unfortunate condition of poor children who can't afford to go pay schools The colored jurors are next the subject of the Examiner's wrath and it again plays the prophetic role, by foretelling the speedy termination of trials by keeping white and colored jurymen locked up in a close room in summer

We don't think that would have much effect on the sensitive olfactory nerves of the Examiner folks. The editor of that paper is a high toned Southern gentleman of the chivalric order, and it is a common custom of that class when they desire to prove how much they love the negro, to boast that they were suckled by a black woman and they loved their black mammy just as much as they did their white one Was the chivalrous editor of the Examiner ever suckled by a black mammy? If so, he could sit in a jury room with black men all summer with impunity

Again, we allude to another institution of Southern chivalry, now obsolete, and we hope forever In the good old days of slavery every Southern gentleman had his black mistress and the statesmen of the South would the odor was not so offensive then Did the editor of the Examiner ever patronize that institution? If he did he was only following the example of Thomas Jefferson, Richard M. Johnson and other great lights of the Democracy

"Dream of freedom in a slave's embrace"

By way of episode—we notice that the [illegible] in question amuses itself by a few [illegible] sarcastic [illegible] about Mr Tompkins of the State Senate, and United States Senator Cole, just as if either of those gentlemen cared a straw about the would be funny articles of the Democratic organ of the Pacific

The Little Affair at Dayton

DAYTON, March 7, 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

SIR I notice in the OREGONIAN of the 29th, an article copied from the Salem Statesman headed "Excitement in Yamhill" Now, if you will please give this space in your columns, it will be regarded as a favor by quite a number of citizens in Dayton I would not have noticed the article, if it had stated things as they actually occurred but, in the first place the writer of the article has most assuredly made a great many misstatements, and for the purpose of correcting [illegible] of them, I send you a statement of the little difficulties that have actually occurred here

The writer of the article says "It seems that a saloon keeper [illegible] with a petition for license and, in order to [illegible] his design, obtained signatures fraudulently, whereupon the temperance element remonstrated, and the thing was carried to such an extent that the affair finally landed in court, to test the veracity of certain parties who had made sworn statements. We have it that [illegible] alleged to have perjured themselves, since the trial, have been tormenting the village blacksmith who is a Good Templar, and played a prominent part in their prosecution Early on a morning of last week they [illegible] into his shop unobserved and placed in the [illegible] a heavy blast of powder"

That the blast of powder was placed in his forge, is true but that it did [illegible] damage to the property, is not true. There was no damage done at all, except that it frightened one man, who was standing near by, quite severely He did not recover from the shock for about an hour He was not hurt, but much scared.

Now I claim that the village blacksmith has a right to his suspicion, but has no right to accuse any one in particular, where, as the writer says, they went into the shop unobserved And such course of [illegible] be the means of inflicting [illegible] on innocent parties. I think it only [illegible] to the "parties" mentioned in the article that this little matter be [illegible], and for this purpose I [illegible] you this. The parties alluded to are those who have [illegible] borne good reputation in [illegible] they have resided

North Pacific Bonds in Germany

Sometime ago a number of commissioners were sent out by German bankers to examine into and report on the lands and resources of the Northern Pacific Railroad These gentlemen visited Minnesota and afterwards passed through Oregon It will be remembered that they were in Portland last summer Through the London Times of the 24th January, the substance of their report comes to us Proposals were made to the Union Bank of Vienna for placing bonds to the amount of forty millions of dollars, and a group of houses that had been interested in the proposition, before engaging themselves fully in the task of such magnitude sent out this commission to make a thorough inspection From the London Times we quote the following as to the results of the investigation

After a close examination, during four months of the project the Commission returned last November, and it is said that, although one Commissioner gave a separate opinion unreservedly favorable to the proposed undertaking, the other four, in an elaborate joint report, express themselves strongly opposed to certain points connected with the financial part of it, which, they assert, must be essentially modified before the bonds can in their opinion, be safely recommended to the European money markets The Continental bankers having adopted the views of the majority of their Commission, the matter so far as they are concerned, remains in suspense, pending the action of the American promoters with respect to the objections raised

It is added that the report in full will not be published until the agreement of the Northern Pacific Company to the necessary modifications is given The St Paul (Minn) Press thinks it would not be far out of the way to conjecture that the essential modifications which the capitalists desire before putting the bonds on the market relate chiefly to the commissions which they would like to get for "syndicating" the proposed loan of fifty million dollars As to their opinion of the general resources, character and prospects of the undertaking, which they prudently reserve until their terms are complied with, the article of the Times distinctly implies that they are fully satisfied with the material basis of the enterprise, inasmuch as they find fault with nothing but the financial scheme or in other words, with some of the conditions of the loan

An International Code

The distinguished lawyer, David Dudley Field, has published an "International Code," one chapter of which treats of "Provisions for the Preservation of Peace" His first proposition is that in time of peace the number of persons employed at any one time in the military service of a nation, whether intended for land or sea, should not exceed in number one for every thousand inhabitants Mr. Field's argument for this reform is very tersely stated, but we can only give one paragraph, as follows

The military establishment of Europe during peace has, in round numbers, 3 000,000 of men, and when placed on a war footing it swells to 5,000,000 These men are all withdrawn from industrial pursuits, where they could contribute to the comfort and wealth of mankind Their support requires the labors of as many more, so that it may be set down that the standing armies of that [illegible] empire upon the national burdens equal to the labors of 10,000,000 of able-bodied men The whole population of that quarter of the world is 240,000,000, of which it is computed that one in five is able to do the full day's work of a man; that is, 48,000,000 in all. Therefore, one fifth, at least, of the flower of Europe is set aside to make ready for war. That is an unnecessary waste of force. No nation is benefitted by it, all are burdened The burden can be taken off by common consent. The only point to be considered is, the minimum to which the force can be reduced.

It is assumed by Mr. Field that enlightened nations are just as much bound to avoid war by submitting disputes to a legal and impartial tribunal as individuals are to resort to courts of law rather than to the pistol and bludgeon He assumes that the public opinion of the civilized world will ultimately—and at no very distant day—recognize the importance of international regulations, imposed by universal consent, binding on all and enforcible on any party to the compact by the united power of all the rest. In case of disagreements between two nations that cannot be otherwise adjusted, his proposed Code provides for a Joint High Commission If this means fails, then there is to be formed within twelve months a "High Tribunal of Arbitration," to be constituted as follows

Each nation receiving the notice shall, within three months thereafter, transmit to the nations in controversy the names of four persons, and from the list of such persons the nations in controversy shall alternately, in the alphabetical order of their own names, as indicated by Article 15, reject one after another till the number is reduced to seven, which seven shall constitute the tribunal

This is a final tribunal, by whose decision every subject in dispute is to be determined, and all the nations are to see that the judgments are enforced. That the opinion of the civilized world will at some period not very distant require and accept this or some similar method of settlement between nations will seem chimerical only to those who have no acquaintance with the under-currents of history and do not perceive the tendencies of human society

A Testimonial to the Administration

The Boston Advertiser always an admirer of Mr Sumner has this to say of the Administration

They who believe in its integrity have every reason to be proud that in all cases where charges have been preferred or investigations have been sought, the executive department of the administration has either anticipated them or has co operated with committees of Congress to make such investigations prompt, impartial and complete Though most unjustly attacked by their enemies and sadly embarrassed by their friends the President and the members of his Cabinet, while making no display of their methods of administering their varied and great trusts, and never vindicating themselves before the public except as they are vindicated, by their character and lives, have welcomed and aided, where they have not anticipated, every practicable effort to unmask dishonesty and drive it from the public service And we do no more than justice to the motives, while we do not agree with the policy, of those members of Congress who have deprecated indiscriminate and sweeping investigations upon vague charges, in saying that they have done so in order to stop the spread of false notions of public corruption, and not from any purpose or desire on their part to hide the truth

A large part of the report of the Investigating Commission for which the State pays so roundly is made up of very remarkable testimony One witness was pretty certain that he had seen the former warden of the penitentiary carrying off under his coat tails some small items of groceries from the stores of that institution and another was quite positive that he had seen Gov Woods fill his lamp out of oil belonging to the State Five thousand dollars isn t a cent too much to pay for a report which makes disclosures like these

SHORT PARAGRAPHS

The New York Times thinks it a little the most [illegible] to confidence on the part of certain Senators to have spent three months in [illegible] against the purity of the Administration and to have exhausted every resource of insinuation to blacken the character of a Chief Magistrate against whom they have not dared to bring a single definite accusation

Miss Nellie Mellen, out in East Saginaw, Mich who has for several years supported her widowed mother by keeping a milliner's shop has fallen heir to $200 000 by the death of a rich uncle in New Orleans Doubtless the good people of Saginaw of both sexes and all denominations will now discover that she is a much sweeter and more attractive Mellen than they ever took her to be

The will of a Virginia millionaire is in litigation in Albemarle county The millionaire himself was born a pauper of unmarried parents and was through life a bachelor and a misanthrope He accumulated about $2 000 000 the bulk of which he bequeathed to found an agricultural college on certain contingencies, which it is claimed by persons who wish to have the handling of the funds have not occurred

Mr Nash, of Plymouth Ind is the most grateful being we ever heard of He extends his thanks to his noble fellow citizens for their kindness in pitching his household goods out of doors on the occasion of the burning of a small barn near his house, recently The goods were badly and unnecessarily smashed, and were in no danger whatever in the house, but he is very thankful to the good people for their generous assistance

A British paper says All that we hear of the results of the trials given to the cundurango bark furnished by our Government to the Middlesex and St Bartholomew s hospitals, through the College of Physicians, confirms the fear that any hope which might have been entertained, of a confirmation of the statement of its utility as a remedy in cancer, must be entirely dismissed Physiologically it appears to be practically inert, and its therapeutic effects in the treatment of the cancer to be nil. It furnishes a slight bitter extract of feeble character. A detailed therapeutical report will be made by Mr Hulke, and a careful examination of its physiological action by Dr Brunton but this mainly in deference rather to the official sources from which this small supply has been furnished, and to set at rest the excitement caused by the somewhat scandalous claims which have been set up in it favor

"Will Dr Livingstone ever come back again ?" To this question the Rev Mr Tyler, who has lived in Africa, responds in the Congregationalist newspaper "I think he will According to Mr Tyler the Doctor is engaged in studying new dialects, and if these in that part of Africa in which he is now supposed to be, are as numerous and diverse as in the vicinity of the Cape and Natal, he will have enough to occupy all his time " It is to be remembered, also, that he is traveling on foot, and that during a considerable portion of the year it will be impossible for him to travel at all The notion that Dr L. has taken to himself a black Mrs Livingstone Mr Tyler repudiates as ridiculous. "I doubt not, he concludes, "England will soon welcome home again the lion of African travelers " If he should come, what a lion he will be !

"Among the Missing."

THE LOST SOLDIERS OF THE LATE FRANCO-GERMAN WAR—NUMBER OF THE ABSENT ONES

BERLIN, Jan 20, 1872 —One of the most distressing chapters in the history of war is that of the missing It is painful to lose a father, brother or son on the field, but still more painful is the uncertainty as to whether the lost one is living or dead It can scarcely be said that the statistics of casualties during the late war have been fully digested None of them have as yet appeared in a form comprising the entire force engaged, and scientifically reducing figures in order to facilitate comparison with statistics respecting the mortality, sickness and casualties of other wars, such, for instance, as arranged by E B Elliott, Actuary to the United States Sanitary Commission An interpellation which has just taken place in the Diet affords us information with regard to

of the North German Army in the late war The number is very large, though in proportion to the whole force it cannot be called excessive Mr Elliott, in his "Military Statistics," gives for the nine earlier months of the war, from June 1861 to February, 1862, the average annual rate of the missing in action at 14 per 1,000 enlisted men, and in the six later months, March to August, 1862, at forty per 1,000 enlisted men It must be recollected that this is a per annum loss, and that as the Franco-German war lasted but seven months, due allowance must be made The Germans so accustomed to the long-winded explanations with which all the departments of Government "sugar the pill," stand aghast at the idea that for so large a number of unaccountably lost, the War Department gives no other explanation than "missing " In provinces remote from the fields of strife where nothing but the careful treatment of the sick and wounded was witnessed, it can scarcely be understood how so many thousands of men could have been lost on foreign soil without the Government's being able to give the least account of what has become of them As prisoners are often classed among the missing, it is believed that many German soldiers are still held as such in France, and the supposition that the French would go the unnecessary expense of caring for prisoners is still clung to by the bereaved families Some even comfort themselves with the idea that Germans are forcibly detained in Algiers to fight the rebellious natives Nearly a year has elapsed since the conclusion of peace and yet the mystery surrounding the missing has lost none of its painful interest It would seem that with the present means of intercourse, if we accept a few who may desire to conceal their whereabouts from their families the missing might be safely classed as dead How many have been buried without any record whatever? But very recently the body of a Prussian soldier was near Saarbrucken Many fell victims of assassination at the hands of fanatic populations, who had all reason to conceal their villanous deeds It seems that very incomplete returns have been made by Belgian hospitals, in which large numbers of Prussian soldiers are known to have died From all hospitals, in fact, the reports have been rather unsatisfactory as many of the missing are traced to the hospitals and no further This, no doubt was owing to the overcrowding and the frequent evacuations rendered necessary by the constant inpouring of the sick and wounded An important question connected with the 'missing is the declaring of their deaths by the courts—a matter which cannot admit of much longer delay

THE MINISTER OF WAR S EXPLANATION

General Von Roon admitted that he at first estimated the number of the missing at about thirteen hundred but that now to his great surprise, it amounted for the North German army exclusive of Saxons to 2 241 Certain it is that many have been buried without having been indentified The practical American custom to have each man wear a check of identification upon his person, had been observed with the regulars and the reserves It may be that owing to the superstition on the part of the soldiers, bodies were found without the check—a circumstance which has caused the Austrian Government to order these checks to be worn in time of peace as well Many of the wounded who survived returned without checks having lost them when stripped by the surgeons or through other unaccountable means

Stocks stronger and the market active

The Bulletin of this evening, referring to the wool market, says that a man who has returned from the East reports the market as unusually firm and almost bare of stock He got a sale in Boston at $1 05 a pound the highest since 1864 This was a choice lot of Mestiza, secured on the sheep's back

WASHINGTON COUNTY

HILLSBORO, March 7 1872

The three fine days past have set every thing to moving Preparation is being made to start the plows, and a few are already plowing on rolling ground The farmers are also taking a lively interest in the turnip, beet and carrot crops, for the purpose of stall feeding stock for the winter and early spring market I understand that Mr Reed proposes to raise fifteen acres of these vegetables on the Zachary farm and quite a number of others intend to raise a like amount for stock feeding Stock raisers and farmers begin to see that stall feeding as well as the wintering of farm stock, is an unprofitable business at the ruling prices for wheat and oats We have in our mind quite a number of small farmers who feed out the entire wheat and oat crop during the winter selling barely enough to pay their taxes and buy a few groceries, when they might just as easy as not put in an acre or two to turnips and carrots, and in that manner raise a sufficient quantity of feed for their stock, independent of their main crops Another thing, farmers say their land must be fed We say you feed it with vengeance when you burn up your straw, when it has been well demonstrated that a few tons of straw, baled and sent to Portland at this year s prices or, in fact, any other year, will buy lime enough to manure twenty times as much land as the burnt straw Lime is death to sorrel If any one doubts this, let him try it for himself on a small scale and profit by his experience if he will learn by no other school

British Museum Library

The British Museum is now said—we clip from an exchange—to have 1,600 000 books in its library The idea of printing its catalogue entire has been abandoned, inasmuch as there are in the collection some hundreds of thousands of ephemeral publications and broadsides which would swell a catalogue to a magnitude that for practical purposes would be useless The number of American books in the Museum is said to be greater than in any library of the United States A separate catalogue of these books has been compiled by Mr Henry Stevens the gentleman who has had the largest share in procuring them Since 1848 this gentleman has devoted most of his time in London to adding to the collection of American books in the British Museum, and also in enriching many libraries both public and private, in the United States by his selections from the foreign markets The Museum contains no less than 17 various editions, in our own language, of 'The Pilgrim s Progress as well as 29 copies of the work in other languages, including Arabic Bengalee Danish, Dutch, French, Gaelic German Maori the peasant dialect of Norway Oriza, modern Greek and Russian also, 72 editions in English of Paradise Lost, while there are 52 editions in other languages including Armenian Danish Dutch French, German Icelandic Italian Latin and Swedish Of Rollins [illegible] the library contains 74 volumes in English, and [illegible] in other languages

THE SECOND LECTURE OF THE COURSE WILL be delivered by W D HARE Esq , on Wednesday Evening, March 13th, 1872,

at 7½ o clock

SUBJECT— Ought we to have a National System of Compulsory Education?

This subject is rapidly assuming great importance in the minds of the people of the United States The sentiment is growing that we should not longer be content to see ourselves surpassed by the monarchical governments of Europe Our existence as a nation depends upon popular education and our advancement in nation of power wisdom and virtue will keep pace with its extension Already has a bill been introduced in Congress looking toward the establishment of a National System, and we shall soon find it to be an important element in our politics

MR HARE has devoted considerable study to this subject and his Lecture will be a plea for a national law, showing the necessity for it in a moral religious and civil point He will show the errors in our present system and prove that we have the power to remedy the defects by Congressional enactment

No one who has the welfare of his country at heart can afford to miss this Lecture It is impossible to overestimate its importance. Of Mr Hare s ability to treat this subject it is unnecessary to speak He is well known in this community as a man of profound and honest convictions a lawyer of much ability and a fluent and agreeable speaker His name is sufficient guarantee that the subject will be presented with all the power which its importance demands mb6d6d

Professor McGibeny's Case.—This gentleman has been producing this week at the Congregational Church, the operetta of "Laila" charging admission at the door. The Chief of Police on Wednesday suddenly waked up to the fact that there was an ordinance in existence providing for the collection of license fees from the proprietors or agents of theaters, shows exhibitions, [illegible] dances etc, and he straightway went and arrested Mr McGibeny for neglect and refusal to take out a license for "Laila." Mr McGibeny contests of course and the matter will be heard before Judge Denny this morning. We know what the ordinance is and incline to the opinion that its plain meaning will hold Mr McGibeny to the payment of a license fee, but we do not [illegible] to discuss particularly that part of the [illegible], just now. What we propose to speak of is the manner in which the ordinance has been heretofore enforced in respect to certain parties. When Mr [illegible] or Mr Waldron comes here with a [illegible] dramatic company they are required at once to pay license. Mr Bosco is charged a license fee for his entertainments. Bachelder's Pan[illegible] has to pay a license. When Bianchi was here he had to pay a license, and so on. Every theatrical or operatic company which arrives here from another town or city has to pay license before they are permitted to "show." The [illegible] ought to be liberal in regard to entertainments that are moral in character, in fact, we [illegible] that there ought to be no license fee charged for any one of the above-mentioned entertainments, or similar ones. But what the ordinance ought to be, and what it is, are two different [illegible]. The ordinance in question was [illegible], 1865, and it provides, Subdivision [illegible] of Section 9, as follows: "Theaters [illegible] a quarterly license of fifty dollars or a [illegible] per night, at the option of the [illegible]. Every building used wholly or in part [illegible] of dramatic or operatic representations or performances, shall be regarded as a theater under this ordinance." Subdivision [illegible] of the same section provides that "the [illegible] or agents of all other exhibitions or shows for money, not enumerated in this section shall pay ten dollars per week, or a daily license of five dollars."

These provisions were evidently intended to cover the cases of all performances for amusement, on the one side, and pay on the other. But it has not been customary to enforce the ordinance [illegible] the local musical or dramatic performances. Now we wish to inquire, why should [illegible] against Professor McGibeny when [illegible] "Laila," and not against the Phil[illegible] when it gives a grand vocal and [illegible]tal concert? Why against the operetta of "Laila" and not against the drama of "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments," or the drama of "The Free hearted Man," as performed by the Good Templars? Why go for McGibeny [illegible] Catholic Church Society holds fairs and [illegible] with musical accompaniments, and grand [illegible] without paying a cent for license? The [illegible] Society gives musical and literary entertainments, readings from standard authors, [illegible] not long since gave an entertainment [illegible] dramatic in character, the Lutheran Church [illegible] awhile since in a fair and lottery, the Methodist people occasionally give entertainments, consisting of musical performances, [illegible] dramatic pieces, modestly called dialogues or soliloquies—and they all take money at the door, and so on, through nearly every association or separate circle in the entire community. They all do things which, by strict construction, would [illegible] render them liable to the penalty [illegible] as Mr. McGibeny can be in the representation of "Laila."

The [illegible] naturally arise, "Why are not all [illegible]?" "Why is Mr McGibeny made the [illegible]?" There are those who will not be [illegible] that the proceedings in this [illegible] in the nature of persecution, and there can be none who will not look upon the discrimination against Mr McGibeny as invidious. [illegible], we can see no good reason why he [illegible] to pay license any more than the [illegible] or the Good Templars, or the church [illegible], or the Academy, or any less than Mr. W[illegible] or Mr. Bosco, or the proprietor of the P[illegible]

On [illegible] Quarrels.—The following is from the [illegible]. Unless we are greatly mistaken, it might teach a lesson in Portland. [illegible] the Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, in his old age, [illegible] of church quarrels, he was wont to relate his own experience in church building and [illegible]. After he had lived long in Lancaster to be earning a handsome [illegible] his mother in Vermont, to urge her to come and take up a residence with him. "But, [illegible]," said the old lady, "have you got a Baptist church in Lancaster?" "No," was the reply. "How near is the nearest?" [illegible] "Eighteen miles, mother." The old lady [illegible] to move. For some years Mr. [illegible] his mother to come and live with him, but in vain. At last, he inquired how many of his fellow town people were Baptists, and [illegible] a number, he offered to pay half the cost, if they would build a church and call a pastor. The offer was gladly accepted [illegible] and [illegible] was then cheap, and the house was soon erected. A pastor was then called and [illegible], and next a choir was organized. Half the choir wanted the tunes pitched by the tuning-fork, the other half preferred the fife. The quarrel between the tuning fork and fife [illegible] to the congregation, and unfortunately the [illegible] took part in it. The consequence was [illegible] to him and his preaching, till he was soon [illegible] away, the church broken up, and for some time Lancaster had to go without a [illegible] church."

[illegible] in a Warehouse.—About 1 o'clock [illegible] afternoon a portion of the upper floor of the [illegible] warehouse gave way and fell in with a [illegible] crash upon the floor. The [illegible] was equally under this part of the floor had been removed for convenience, and the entire weight of the upper floor was thus left suspended by bolts upon the truss roof. There was some [illegible] and freight piled upon this floor and it is [illegible] that a defective bolt gave way and let the structure fall. The truss frames were broken and dragged down by the bolts, the timbers falling upon and doing some damage to a lot of carriages standing on the upper floor. The roof itself did not fall in, the gable end and the third or fourth truss holding it up. Between it [illegible] and a little broken but will not have to be taken off probably. Fortunately there was [illegible], at the moment of the fall in that part of the warehouse, nor much freight on the lower floor. Considering the nature of the crash, the [illegible] will foot up but little.

A Bell for a Church.—The San Francisco Chronicle is pleased to say: "All good Christians will rejoice to learn that they have a [illegible] in Oregon. There is no positive proof of this, but the reporter has strong presumptive evidence that such is the fact, for yesterday he saw on Clay st. wharf a very large rotary yoke bell, weighing 15 111 pounds, and bearing an in[illegible] setting forth that it was a present from Asa Harker to the First Congregational Church of Portland, Oregon. The bell was made at the M[illegible] Bell Foundry West Troy, New York. The bark Almatia will carry this curfew to the Webfoot State." Why, yes, certainly, we've got a church in Oregon, and we've often wondered why those San Francisco chaps didn't buy one—they are such excellent things for toning up the [illegible].

A Sailor Drowned.—A sailor named Thomas Goodlet was drowned yesterday morning at the O S N Co's dock. He came to this city as carpenter on board the bark Harrington and on Thursday he engaged to go as carpenter on board the bark Metis, now at Astoria waiting to ship a crew. He had been boarding at Burke's hotel East Portland. Yesterday morning before daylight he crossed the river in a small boat and came alongside the Dixie Thompson for the purpose of going on her to Astoria. While lifting his chest from the small boat to the guard of the [illegible], he fell backward into the river and was carried directly, as is supposed, under the wheel which was in slow motion, and was not seen again. He was a native of Liverpool, England and about twenty eight or thirty years old.

Positively the Oldest Inhabitant.—We have a letter from Mr H. A Johnson of Jefferson, concerning the controversy which has recently sprung up as to who is the earliest permanent American settler in Oregon now living. Mr Johnson says: "James M. Bates was born in Washington City D C November 9, 1809, arrived in Oregon April, 1829 on the Boston ship Convoy, cultivated a farm that year at Scappoose Bay, on the Columbia, and has lived at Jefferson, Marion county, twenty six years." Mr Bates seems to be a few pegs ahead of Mr Gray's "oldest inhabitant."

LOCAL BREVITIES

The United States Grand Jury was discharged yesterday.

Umbrellas, overshoes and overcoats were the staple demands of yesterday.

The steamship California will sail for Puget Sound and Victoria next Monday.

This market is receiving about thirty tons of flour per day from the Salem mills.

Sneak thieves, prowlers and hoodlums are becoming plenty again. People should keep a look out.

There were seven cases of "drunk," assault and battery," etc, before the Police Court yesterday morning.

St Helen's Hall was burglarized, a night or two since, to the extent of $200 worth of spoons and plated ware.

We have heard the desire frequently expressed that the theater management would produce "Ours" and "After Dark."

A petition is in circulation asking the Council to extend the limits within which stock shall not run at large northward to G street.

At their meeting last night the Portland Social Club resolved to give a calico ball on the evening of the 25th instant, at the Washington Guard Armory.

COURT PROCEEDINGS

FRIDAY March 8, 1872

U S DISTRICT COURT—DEADY, JUDGE

Philip and Louis Levin vs steamship California, decree dismissing libel and for costs.

Grand Jury presented two indictments and were discharged for the term.

CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON, JUDGE

William Price vs O & C R R Co, cause continued until next term.

Joseph Church vs N Goodman et al, dismissed at plaintiff's costs.

William P Burke et al vs J P O Lownsdale et al, continued for the term.

Catharine Burke et al vs J. P O Lownsdale et al, same order.

All jurors excused for the term.

Robert Jennings vs Josephine M Jennings, suit for divorce, taken under advisement.

A Tharman admitted to citizenship.

The Governor Hurries the Matters.—Ex Gov Gibbs, who has just a few days since assumed the office of U S District Attorney, has received a note from Governor Grover to the effect that he has appointed Mr C. B Bellinger to the office of Prosecuting Attorney for the Fourth Judicial District, which office he takes it for granted had become vacant through the acceptance by Mr Gibbs of the office of U S District Attorney. Governor Gibbs, however, informs us that he has no doubt he may legally hold both of the offices, and as he does not propose to be thus cavalierly snuffed out, he will contest any man's right to usurp his office of Prosecuting Attorney. He can probably hold the two offices quite as rightfully as did Mr Al Zieber the offices of Sheriff and U S Marshal, which he held at the same time a few years since. At that time it was mooted whether upon assuming the office of Marshal he would thereby vacate the office of Sheriff. The question was submitted to Mr Lansing Stout, who was considered good law authority, and he gave an opinion that the two offices could be legally held at the same time by one person. We reckon if that opinion was good in the case of a Democratic U S Marshal it ought to be good in the case of a Republican U S District Attorney.

Accidental Shooting and Death.—The Coroner, Mr T J Dryer, was notified last Monday that a man had been found dead on the farm of Mrs H M Smith in Sandy precinct. He had been, evidently, shot through the body, his throat had been cut and it was supposed, at first, that a murder had been committed. The Coroner held an inquest, during which it was ascertained that the body was that of John Magee, a Scotchman by birth, aged about forty years, that he was last seen alive on the 25th of February, and was found in a very secluded place on the 6th of March, that the evidence all pointed to the supposition that while out hunting he had accidentally shot himself, and being badly wounded and unable to move from the place, that he had, after many days of suffering, cut his own throat as a relief from torture, and that as decomposition was scarcely begun when the body was found, he could not have been dead more than a day or two. The jury found a verdict in accordance with the facts and conclusions above stated.

An Injustice Done.—Yesterday morning we made some comments on the case of Capt Smith of the bark Metis, basing our remarks on the information that the complaining witness had testified on the trial that a police officer had hunted him up and induced him to swear out the complaint. We are since informed by Judge Denny himself that the witness did not testify as stated above. Our remarks concerning the officer, therefore, did him an injustice which we cheerfully repair by this correction. We had thought our information reliable, or we should not have said anything about that particular matter.

A Man Missing.—The Herald of yesterday morning says: "We learn that a man named Thomas Anderson, about thirty five years of age, who is described as being remarkably tall and stout, has disappeared in a most mysterious manner. When last seen he was in company with another man near the Oregon Iron Works, and it is supposed that he went in the direction of the White House. It is thought he had some money with him and it is supposed that he may have been foully dealt with."

Card of Thanks.—At a full meeting of the Father Matthew Society, held last evening, February 7, 1872, it was moved and passed unanimously, that a vote of thanks be given to S J McCormick, Esq for his valuable services in delivering a lecture for the benefit of this Society.

L KIDD, Cor Sec'y

House Robbed.—Sometime Wednesday afternoon, during the absence of the occupants, the residence of P A Brownell, in McMillen's Addition, East Portland, was entered by burglars, and a rifle, a small sum of money, jewelry and clothing stolen.

Special Notices—Crowded—Joseph Kohn & Co

Crowded.—Messrs Jos Kohn & Co successors to Kohn & Fishel have filled every nook and corner in their extensive Clothing establishment with Spring Goods. On the second floor they have an elegant stock of goods for the jobbing trade which they are offering at prices to suit every one. Country Dealers would do well to call and examine the stock. To their city customers and in fact to the public in general, whether resident or otherwise, they offer such bargains that no one need feel disposed to leave without purchasing. Nothing more need be said. Try the new firm. You'll never regret so doing.

The Umatilla House at The Dalles is now completed and furnished in every respect unsurpassed. The office is the most cheerful and pleasant in the State and the dining hall is unequaled. The rooms are all newly furnished. The house has twelve suites of rooms with stoves in them for families. The new house stands much higher than the old one. The ceilings are four feet higher which adds greatly to the cheerfulness of the rooms. The table is kept in a style to correspond fully with the appointments.

A Good Idea.—Messrs Hurgren & Shindler, desirous of accommodating their customers in this city, have had manufactured expressly for their use a splendid Furniture Wagon, with which they will convey to purchasers any article in their line Free of Charge. They are making room for New Goods and selling their present stock at Low Prices. The public will find this just the time to make purchases. They have New Specialties in Furniture, Mattresses and other goods in their line. Remember, everything they sell will be delivered free to any part of the city.

The Metropolis Altercation

In the matter of a slight altercation at the Metropolis Hotel there seems to be a disposition, through prejudice or otherwise, to cast odium on one of the parties without giving the facts. After the Hon Police Judge had imposed a fine (which I presume did not strain his conscience) they published one of the parties names without giving the other. The other being a brilliant youth by the name of Orlando Packard having just been made the recipient of Gov Grover's favor in the shape of an appointment as Notary Public and thus presuming upon his importance, he thereby received the tumbler of slops in his face. m8d2t

Periodic Disorders

The paroxysmal maladies which are characterized by heat and cold prevail extensively at this season and it is a curious fact that in many parts of the country where they are prevalent other diseases that bear no general resemblance to fever and ague or remittent fever assume a periodic type. Thus in many sections infested with chills and fever, rheumatism, neuralgia, hysteria, diarrhea, etc sometimes become intermittent, thereby indicating that they have been engendered by the same poisonous exhalations which produce the first named disease.

In all these masked cases of ague—for such they are—as well as in the regular intermittents, the most safe and reliable remedy that can be administered is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Neither quinine nor arsenic are needed. Both are in the highest degree dangerous, and are sure to leave sad traces of their poisonous action in the system whether they arrest the paroxysms or not. In many instances all the so called specifics of the regular materia medica utterly fail to break up intermittent and remittent disorders. But the great vegetable Tonic never fails. The spasm of the minute blood vessels which causes the chill is the result of nervous weakness produced by the debilitating operation of an unwholesome atmosphere, and the tone and vigor given to the nervous system by the Bitters enable it to throw off the disease. The wiser policy however is to anticipate attacks of this nature by arousing all the latent energies of the body at the commencement of the moist and chilly season with this incomparable antidote. By pursuing this course intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, colic, biliousness, dyspepsia and pulmonary affections may always be prevented.

MR. DAVID W C NESFIELD,

Late Professor of Vocal and Instrumental Music and Organist of St Mary's College San Francisco, is prepared to receive Pianoforte and Organ Pupils and to give instruction in Vocal Music in accordance with the strict Italian method. Also to form classes for the study of Harmony, Thorough Bass &c.

Mr Nesfield refers with pleasure to the Directors of the San Francisco Musical Institute and to Frederick Lyster Esq, late Musical Director of the Lyster Italian Opera Troupe.

DECISION IN THE DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY

[illegible]

United States District Court—District of Oregon. The California.

This suit is brought by the libellants—Philip and Louis Levin—to recover the sum [illegible] damages for the non-delivery of case of merchandise.

The libel alleges that on September [illegible] 18[illegible] the libellants shipped at the port of San Francisco on the steamship California five cases of merchandise in good order and condition to be delivered at the port of Portland on Wallamet in like order and condition, and that one of said cases containing 1 bolt sheeting, 3 overlids, kid gloves, ladies hose, neckties, velvet ribbon, etc., was never delivered.

The Claimant—The North Pacific Trans. Co.—by its answer admits that the case in question was shipped on the California in apparent good order and condition, value and contents unknown, and avers that it was duly delivered to the libellants in like order and condition.

On the hearing it appeared that the case was delivered by the vessel on the wharf at Portland on September 13 and taken from thence in a few hours to the store of the libellants, where it was at the suggestion of the drayman at once opened and found to contain nothing but a bolt of sheeting, some coverlids, ladies hose and empty paper boxes, whereupon it was immediately returned to the vessel.

The case was about 3 feet by 2 in size and a second hand one, such as it was usual to pack dry goods in for carriage between San Francisco and Portland. When delivered to the libellant's drayman at Portland, externally it was in good order and condition except that in handling it the drayman observed that it was light and that the contents appeared to fall from side to side as though it was not full. The fact that it was light is not material, as it was common for like cases containing light goods, such as bonnets and the like, to be carried on the steamers between San Francisco and Portland.

The libellants gave evidence tending to prove that the articles described in the libel were purchased by one of them in San Francisco and packed in this case at the store of Marcus Levi and then put upon a truck to be hauled to the dock where the California lay, and that the case was subsequently delivered to the vessel, but there was no direct evidence that the case was in the same condition as to quantity and quality of contents when it was delivered to the vessel, as when it left the store of Levi. At the time there was more freight offering for this port than the steamer could carry, and consequently there was an effort among shippers to get their freight upon the dock early. On this account it was common for drays to remain in line outside the dock with freight for as much as 24 hours. The vessel was loaded in a day and sailed on the morning of September 10, and it is quite probable from the evidence that the case left the store of Levi on the 7th or 8th, and was not delivered upon the dock until the morning of the 9th. If so, during this time it [illegible] upon the truck in charge of the drayman. The testimony of this drayman has not been produced, nor any excuse or [illegible] given for not doing so.

Admitting that the goods were in the case when it left Levi's,—which is not beyond doubt—and that they were taken out and the case nailed up again between there and the wharf, at Portland, there is just as much [illegible] to believe that the embezzlement or robbery took place while the case was on the truck, and before it was delivered to the ship, as afterwards.

To say the least, the evidence leaves it in doubt whether the goods were delivered to the ship or not. The burden of proof to prove the delivery being upon the libellants, they cannot recover unless this fact is established with reasonable certainty. The fact that the best evidence upon this point—the testimony of the drayman—is not produced, nor the omission excused or accounted for, is a circumstance which deepens the doubt about the delivery of the goods, and even casts suspicion on the good faith of the libellants' claim for loss. Under these circumstances the proof must be direct and convincing to satisfy the mind that the delivery took place [illegible].

Waiving this point, counsel for libellants insist, however, that the admission in the bill of lading is sufficient to charge the ship with the receipt of the goods. The clause relied on is as follows: "Shipped in apparent good order and condition. * * * Five (5) C. Mdse. * * * value and contents unknown." It being admitted or shown that the letters Mdse stand for merchandise, counsel contends that this is an admission not only that the case contained merchandise, but that it was of the quantity and quality claimed by the libellants. In support of this position he cites Price vs. Powell (3 Com., 325). This authority holds that when a bill of lading was given for a box of marble tomb tops "in good order and well conditioned," the burden of proof is upon the carrier to show that the marble was broken before it came to his hands. The case is not in point. There was a direct admission that the specific articles alleged to have been shipped were in the box and in good order.

The rule of law is well established, that the words in a bill of lading, in good order and well conditioned, have reference to the external condition of the package and do not refer to or warrant the internal quality or condition thereof, and when the words "value and contents unknown" are contained therein they exclude the inference of any admission by the carrier as to the quantity or quality of the contents of the package at the time of delivery, beyond what is visible to the eye or apparent from handling the same. Bradstreet vs. Heran, (2 Blatch, C. C., 117). The Columbo, (3 Blatch C. C., 522), Clarke vs Barnwell, et al. (12 How., 283) Abb., on Ship., 339.

The loose condition of the contents of the case when taken by the drayman from the wharf and the reasonable inference therefrom that it was not then full is also relied upon by counsel for libellants as showing that the case was not delivered in apparent good order and condition, and that therefor the burden of proof is thrown upon the claimant to show that the case was not full when received, or what has become of the missing portion of the contents. At first blush there appears to be force in this argument, and in some cases and under other circumstances, it would be probably satisfactory. But upon reflection, I am pretty well satisfied that the mere fact of the contents of a dry goods box represented to contain merchandise, being loose or not sufficient to fill the box, is not inconsistent or at variance with an admission in a bill of lading that the box was in apparent good order and condition when shipped, especially when the bill of lading also contains, as in this case, the declaration—value and contents unknown.

The proof not being sufficient to establish the fact that the goods alleged to have been lost from the case in question were ever received by the vessel, the libel must be dismissed with costs.

Decree accordingly.

DEADY, J.

J. W. Whalley and H. T. Bingham for libellants.

Joseph N. Dolph for claimant.

The agitation of the Tariff question is producing a state of great uncertainty in commercial circles East. [illegible] some cases from Boards of Trade against further agitation by so[illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] passed the House placing T[illegible] and C[illegible] [illegible] East [illegible] protesting against placing them on the free list. The Senate Finance Committee has [illegible] be [illegible] Tariff bill which is offered as a substitute for the House bill. It is made the special order [illegible] Monday next. The Finance Committee [illegible] Tea and Coffee, but fixes Tea at 10 cents and Coffee at [illegible] cents [illegible] thus disregarding the action of the House, where the vote in favor of placing them on the free list was very large. A general reduction of 10 per cent. on the Tariff is adhered to. Among the changes in the bill as reported is a considerable reduction on Leather. A large number of additional articles [illegible] the free list, being such as do not compete with American production. On Black Coal [illegible] screen 25 cents per ton [illegible] Coal 50 cents per ton. On mineral and bituminous substances in a crude state, not otherwise specially provided for, 10 per cent. ad valorem. On Salt in bulk and on all Rock Salt 9 cents per cwt.; on Salt in bags, sacks, barrels or other packages 12 cents per cwt. On cleaned Rice 1⅛ cents per lb.; uncleaned 1 cent per lb. Paddy ¾ cent per lb. On Potatoes 10 cents a bushel. On all Hides and Skins not otherwise specially provided for 5 per cent. ad valorem. On Pig Lead 1½ cents per lb. After the 1st of July next the duties are to be reduced 10 per cent. on Cottons, Wools, Silks, Iron and Steel, Metals except Pig Iron and Steel Rails, Earthenware, Leather and India Rubber. Among the articles added to the free list are Barley and various kinds of Drugs. It is generally believed that the above bill will pass the Senate, but will fail in the House, as that body is standing more upon its dignity than ever in asserting its claims to originate all measures for revenue. From the perusal of our commercial exchanges we are convinced that the present House is wonderfully lacking in broad statesmanship in dealing with this question, and in its stead none can fail to see the trickery of mere politicians who are looking to the effect of speeches and votes in the coming election, and the selfishness of interested men who are striving to benefit themselves.

As there is an almost certainty of a large Wheat crop in this State and California, the prospects for marketing the same has been extensively discussed in the California papers and also in the papers here. We extract from the New York Shipping List, which has a direct bearing upon the tonnage question and will, if taken advantage of and acted upon by our importers, greatly facilitate direct shipments:

As an unprecedented Wheat crop in California and Oregon is almost a foregone conclusion this year, our San Francisco friends are becoming a little apprehensive lest the tonnage supply fall short of the requirements for moving the surplus, especially as the number of vessels arriving at San Francisco with cargoes has been gradually falling off of late years, through the growth of traffic by the Isthmus, China and Australian steam lines and the overland railroad. Notwithstanding the diminution of the California carrying trade via Cape Horn, we are inclined to believe that there will be no such lack of tonnage for the movement of the surplus Wheat crop of California and Oregon. The wonderful increase of steam tonnage has displaced and is displacing a large amount of sail tonnage, which is forced to seek employment in new fields. Each succeeding year this displaced tonnage finds its way to this side of the Atlantic in augmented force, often coming in ballast when outward freights are good, or bringing over coarse cargoes at merely nominal rates. A very considerable proportion of the British and other foreign tonnage with which the Cotton ports are over supplied came over in ballast, albeit, Cotton freights have ruled low throughout the season. At fair rates on Wheat, say about £3 to Liverpool, the owners of British ships, who unlike Americans are satisfied with a small return for the capital invested, could manage to extract a profit by going to San Francisco in ballast, and in case of an urgent demand a vast amount of shipping will be apt thus to find its way there the coming season. Our own shipowners, in view of the present unpromising outlook of the Atlantic freight market and the fine harvest prospect of the Pacific States, already manifest more disposition to send their ships to San Francisco than for a long time past. The activity of railroad building on the west coast of South America is also causing a good many ships to be sent out with Lumber, railroad materials, etc. The chances are that some of these ships will be attracted to San Francisco. Last year the surplus Wheat crop of San Francisco was so moderate that freights were scarce and rates low. Indeed a heavy per centage of tonnage was forced either to clear out in ballast seeking or engage in the Lumber trade at low rates. This year the prospect is that all the ships which find their way to San Francisco will find plenty of employment at good rates.

Our evening contemporary, in reply to our article regarding the advance in freight, says:

If advancing the rates of freight between Portland and San Francisco would induce our shippers of Flour to dispose of their stock to parties who send orders to Portland a shade lower than they do after it has been shipped to San Francisco, then the trade of Portland will be benefitted by the change, and we will recover the trade of Puget Sound, which for some time past has been slipping from our grasp.

If Puget Sound could take all our surplus Flour, or if entire cargoes could be disposed of here to foreign countries, there would be an advantage in advancing rates on Flour, but unfortunately neither can be done. Puget Sound, Victoria and Sitka cannot take one-quarter of the surplus manufactured in a harvest season, and no full cargoes are purchased so far as we are advised, for any foreign country outside of China, and it is well known that the grade of Flour wanted for China is not manufactured extensively in this State, as the grade required is inferior and at low rates. We repeat the views expressed this morning, that we can but regret the action of the N. P. T. Co. in advancing tariff on Flour and Wheat—former 10 cents per bbl., latter 5 cents per 100 lbs. For millers are forced to market surplus Flour in San Francisco, and the higher the rate of freight the less they will pay for Wheat, and as a consequence shippers will not offer or pay higher rates than competition necessitates them, and in the end the farmers will be the losers, for they will not obtain within 5 cents per 100 lbs of what they would if freight on Wheat and Flour had not been disturbed, and as we stated this morning, with a falling market in Liverpool and the advance in freight less land will be put in than was expected to be placed in cultivation.

Produce Market.

WHEAT—Shippers are out of the market. No vessel in port excepting the bark Coldstream suitable for foreign cargo, and the advance in tariff causes them to withdraw for the present. We are informed of a small lot of choice milling offered to a miller at $1 80 ℔ cental, unsacked, but not taken.

FLOUR—Receipts continue free with shipments to San Francisco still in order. Local trade good. The steamship California will commence receiving freight on Monday, when several large orders will be executed. Prices unchanged.

POTATOES—Officers of the California report that they were unable to take all offering in consequence of full cargo. She could have had half of her cargo composed of Potatoes. Market firm at previous quotations.

ONIONS—A private dispatch from San Francisco last night quoted market at 3 cents ℔ lb. No advance has been made here yet.

EGGS—A private dispatch quoted San Francisco market at 23 cents ℔ dozen. Market here continues to rule at 23 cents, but weak.

VEGETABLES—The steamship Oriflamme brought up a large supply, but when freights were refused, we are informed that the line of drays loaded with Vegetables, etc., was very long. The supply on hand, though large, is hardly able to meet consumptive demand.

General Merchandise.

BOOTS AND SHOES—Messrs. J. Kramer & Co. received a letter by steamship Oriflamme from their correspondent in Boston, from which we obtain the following items: The outlook for prices for future delivery are decidedly in favor of advanced rates. Sole Leather, under shipment of more than half a million of Sides to Europe, has risen and will rise still more. Upper Leather has advanced for the qualities we use, 7½ per cent., and lower grades still more. Since Mr. Kaufman was here with orders coming in more freely, the pretensions of the [illegible] upper uppish, and although as yet we have not increased pay [illegible] we shall certainly have to; in fact we should not now like to take large orders at present prices, as the prices are sure to be higher after the 1st of April, as that day is soon to come.
